of internationally known criminal had set in toward the West Coast set to work after the hold-up to round up every suspicious character that could be located. The dragnet was spread at the instance of Assistant Detective Captain George Smith, in executive charge of the police department at night.

The mail truck left the Arcade postal station at Third street and Central avenue, at 9:30 p. m. for the Santa Fe station.

points to be carried on The Scout.
Santa Fe train No. 10, for Chicago.

FORCE TRUCK TO CURB
The truck was driven to the curb by the Venturi police clerk of The Scout, and James A. Burke, mail guard, of 561 Hyde Park Boulevard, Inglewood.

THIRD STREET
It took about two minutes for it to reach the spot where the hold-up took place near Santa Fe avenue.

THIRD STREET
Third street in that vicinity is lined with warehouses, adjoining each other for a distance of many ways for trucks, and which, at that hour of the night, are unused and dark.

MAIL TRUCK
The mail truck, followed by an eastbound yellow car and two or three automobiles, was proceeding south on Third street when the touring car rushed in on the left side and forced the mail truck to the curb.

LEAPED FROM DOOR
The mailman leaped from the touring car, with leveled guns, de-were masked, it was said, with handkerchiefs.

Johnson told the truck driver, "You were ordered to stop his truck. So you stop it. You execute and complied with that Johnson stalled the motor of the truck and then he started to come to a sudden halt behind it."

A. C. Rapely, a citizen living on South Hope street, was "pocketed" in the rear of the truck on the street car and in front of another automobile.

He said he saw the bandits come out of the truck driver and the two men inside the mail truck. Johnson was forced to start the truck motor at once and drive off down a Willow street adjoining.

While this was being done, two more bandits are declared to have been seen in the rear of the truck, where they apparently had been in hiding. They, too, were armed, and joined their comrades.

According to the report of Detective-Lieutenant Barr, all three

BANDIT DROVE TRUCK
One of the bandits, Harris' associate, drove into the truck and drove it away.
The three mail truck men were taken into the rear of the touring car and forced to squat down. While two bandits sat in the front seat of the touring car, the third sat in the back seat. The mail man on the running board facing the rear of the truck was taken to the mail truck prisoners.
The three mail truck men, for ten or twelve blocks, accompanied by the two touring cars. Then, according to information given police, the touring cars turned off to the right and did not go into the warehouse district and the three postal employees were taken to the warehouse under the truck while some of the bandits stood guard over the barred mail truck.
Harris' keys to the truck were taken from him and the mail man of the bandit gang went to the warehouse.

and Santa Fe avenues, Detective Lieutenants Harry Wilde and H. L. Murphy came across the rear seat.

abashed to their own satisfaction is having come from the touring car.
A man at the corner, whose name was not obtained by officers in their haste to catch the red car, told the detective in response to questions that a big red touring car had gone by the corner only about a minute before the arrival of the officers.
In a futile chase which followed the officers crossed the street across other persons who said they had seen the red touring car headed toward the fast rate of speed, the face of the car was the color of the Santa Fe-avenue pavement.
It is the police belief that the steel cushion was discarded to make room for the pilfered mail.
The car above the street might have held up attention.

BALTIMORE (M.G.) Oct. 8.—
The Baltimore Orioles today evened the "little world series" by trimming the Louisville Colonels, 5 to 3. The teams have won three games each. Earnshaw allowed the Colonels only five hits, while Holly did not possess his usual effectiveness. The feature of the game was a triple play by the Colonels in the fifth inning, which the Orioles had three men on bases. The score:
Louisville 5; Baltimore 3.

PIRATES AGAIN
ARE FAVORITES
(BY A. P. MONT WIRE)
NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—
The Pittsburgh Pirates
again became favorites here at 11 to 10 to win the world's series after their victory over the Washington Senators in the second game had squared the standing of the teams. The betting, which had been light in Wall street up to today, was more active this afternoon, with an abundance of Pittsburgh money in sight.

STRENGTH OF YOUNG PLAYERS

Manager of Pittsburgh Pirates
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
(Copyright, 1925, by the Chicago Tribune)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8.—No one is the way our ball club held up in the tight pinches of the second game. I was pleased to see the way our young infielders gathered around Aldridge in the two big jams he encountered. It was mighty pleasing to see how the team held up in the fifth and in the ninth, when there was not a sign of nervousness anywhere.

SPEED AND ENDURANCE
A Modernized Master Six Buick was driven from Williams, Arizona, to Los Angeles in 19 hours total elapsed time. Many times exceeding 19 miles per hour. This is but a small part of the story. This was an average of 22 miles per hour for 215 miles over rugged mountains and choppy desert roads. This car was driven 18,000 miles previous to this trip and not one mechanical adjustment was necessary. This car has now passed the 35,000-mile mark and not a nickel spent on it mechanically.
PLENTY OF TIME TO PAY
A small down payment and 18 small monthly payments on the easiest interest and insurance rate in Los Angeles with absolutely no brokerage.
"A GOOD INVESTMENT"
These Modernized Master Six Buicks are so well built that they will run well, rear after rear, which is, as you know, more than you can say for some of these inferior new cars which are being dumped on the public by attractive terms, but with exorbitant interest and brokerage rates.

LARGE SECURITY ISSUES OFFERED

Investment Bankers Here to Participate in Sale

North American Edison Stock
on Market Today

Type Foundry Liens for Public Subscription

Six large industrial, real-estate and public-utility issues, aggregating $47,400,000, will be offered for public subscription today by investment bankers of the country and in which investment houses of Los Angeles will participate.

The largest offering is an issue of 200,000 shares of North American Edison Company 4 per cent preferred stock, to be marketed by Dillon, Read & Co. at 97 and accrued dividends to yield about 6.50 per cent. The proceeds of the issue will be used for advances to, and investments in the securities of, the company's subsidiaries and for the retirement of floating debt heretofore incurred for the same purposes, and may be used for further investments in other public-utility properties. The retirement of this floating debt will materially reduce the company's present interest charges.

The North American Company has recently acquired control of the Western Power Corporation with a generating capacity of 412,500 horsepower. Gross earnings for the year ended August 31 of this company were $17,142,953, and net earnings were $12,875,283. The addition of this generating capacity will increase the North American system's capacity to over 1,444,416 horsepower. Earnings of the North American Edison Company for the year ending June 30, last, were 13 per cent of the gross earnings of the North American Company for the same period.

REALTY FINANCING
An issue of $15,000,000 Miller & Lux, Inc. first mortgage 5 per cent bonds will be offered by syndicates headed by Peirce, Fain & Co. and Blyth, Witter & Co., and will represent the first offering of an authorized $25,000,000 issue of bonds to finance cultivation and development of the 100,000 acres of California land of the holding company.

Immediate plans call for the development of 150,000 acres in the San Joaquin Valley, extending through Madera, Merced, Fresno and Kern counties. These lands are to be converted into cotton plantations and small farms upon which new settlers will be located. Other plans call for the development of the San Joaquin ranch with its 280,000 acres, comprising 50 miles of the San Joaquin River in Merced and Madera counties, which will be converted into orchards, vineyards and cotton plantations.

Hunter, Dulin & Co., Curtis & Sanger, West & Co. and Peirce, Fain & Co. will offer an issue of 360,000 shares of American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation participating stock at $50 a share. Upon completion of this financing there will be outstanding $15,550,000 first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, due 1945; 10,000 shares of 10 per cent cumulative preferred stock; 285,000 shares of participating stock; and 200,000 shares of foundation stock, both without par value. The participating stock is entitled to all net earnings after preferred stock requirements have been met during the period from October 1, 1925, to January 1, 1929, and to 40 per cent of all other net income or gain.

UTILITY OFFERING
Announcement was made that arrangements have been completed whereby the New York Shipbuilding Corporation will recapitalize under the name of American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation. The plants of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, located at Camden, N. J., comprise 191 acres of land, with nearly a mile of navigable water frontage on the Delaware River, opposite the city of Philadelphia.

A new issue of $9,500,000 81 Broadway Building first mortgage 5 1/2 per cent sinking fund gold loan, due October 1, 1950, will be offered by P. W. Chapman & Co., Inc., Halsey, Butler & Co., Blyth, Witter & Co., E. H. Rollins & Sons, White, Weld & Co. and Peabody, Houghteling & Co., Inc., at 98 3/4 and interest to yield over 5 1/2 per cent.

The 61 Broadway Building, located in the heart of the financial district of New York City, occupies the entire northwest corner of the intersection of Broadway, with Exchange Alley, extending one block in depth to Trinity Place. The structure is a thirty-two-story office and banking building, and is carefully designed to afford maximum light and to take advantage of its exceptional location facing on three thoroughfares.

POWER LIENS ON MARKET
A syndicate composed of A. C. Allen & Co., Anglo-London Paris Company, Schwabacher & Co. and Toole, Tietzen & Co., will offer a new issue of $5,000,000 Penn Central Light and Power Corporation first and refunding mortgage gold bonds, 5 1/2 per cent, fifty-year, due October 1, 1947, at 97 and accrued interest to yield over 6.65 per cent.

The bonds will be secured by a direct first mortgage upon a portion of the physical property of the corporation, and by a direct mortgage on the balance, subject to certain divisional underlying bond issues, of which $13,625,000 are now outstanding with the public.

Public financing by the largest manufacturer of type in the United States was announced in the offering by the banking houses of Lazard Freres & Co. and Lehman Brothers & Co., of a new issue of $5,000,000 fifteen-year 6 per cent sinking-fund gold debentures of the American Type Foundry Company at 100 and interest to yield 6 per cent.

COMPANIES LOSE PARTNERS TO ELECT RESERVE DIRECTORS

Passing of Stocks to Strong Pools Defeats Ends of Independents; Bank Case Similar

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Right now, the holding company is popular with investors and speculators, but when the excitement of the bull market has waned, possibly the activities of these companies may undergo careful review by some of the critics now beginning to find their voices. In effect, the expansion of holding groups has brought about a centralization of ownership that runs the wrong way with many people, and especially with the companies anxious to distribute their securities as widely as possible.

Not all holding companies, however, have the same motives. Some of them are frankly in the market to buy control of properties, offering to the public a typical position, more efficient management, and possibly better returns to stockholders. Others, however, are trading companies, buying securities in large quantities and holding them for liquidation later at higher prices than they paid in the investment trust, which acquires a diversified line of securities to hold as the basis for the distribution of its own securities.

ABSORPTION OFFERED
To the independent corporation in a sound position and with a growing list of stockholders, the absorption of its stock through the open market by a holding company is not always viewed with equanimity. Many of these companies prefer to go their own way. The expenditure of considerable time and money has gone into the building of their properties and they are not seeking additional financial strength or prestige. And as a rule, it is the strong, independent company that is the most attractive to the large buyer.

Against the greater financial power of the holding companies there are almost insuperable obstacles. The stock is for sale in the market and anyone can buy it if a high price is offered. Speculators are willing to pay several times more than present worth, or at about the figure that future earnings may be estimated. Because of the diversification in their holdings the larger companies can afford to adopt these tactics and eventually show a comfortable profit.

The case of the public utilities is the best illustration. Speculators and investors of large means have decided that utilities will show large profits within the next five or ten years. Several large holding companies have been organized expressly for the purpose of buying the stocks, sometimes obtaining control and sometimes merely a large minority interest. The effect, nevertheless, is almost the same, selecting for investment companies whose attention from the management.

PARTNERS LOST
Where companies are waiting for an opportunity to sell at a profit, the loss of their partners, but in the instances where pride is taken in independent management.

Company, founded in 1922, is not only the largest manufacturer of type, but is the largest dealer in printing and publishing materials in the United States. Its manufacturing plant in Jersey City, N. J., is the largest type foundry in the world. Proceeds of this issue will be used to retire at maturity debentures of the company, due May 1, 1926, to pay off floating debt and to supply additional working capital which growth of business requires. The bonds will mature October 1, 1926, and will be sold at 100 and accrued interest. At the same time announcement was made that Merrill-Lynch & Co. had underwritten a new issue of $3,500,000 4 1/2 per cent cumulative preferred stock.

London Daily Radio
BY ARTHUR W. KIDD
ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) LONDON, Oct. 8.—Financial markets were quiet, but generally steady today.

There was little business in government securities and in the investment market generally. Rail shares were firmer in response to the hope that the conservative party conference would provide a sound basis for a new government. Publicity given to the latter was largely responsible for the restriction on investments in home securities.

Activity in rubber shares continues in large volume, but buyers appear to be showing more discrimination, selecting for investment shares in companies which promise satisfactory returns with rubber prices before rising in courtship has advanced the price to a new high.

In accordance with the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act, forms for use in the nomination of candidates for the position of class "A" and class "B" director of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco have been distributed among the stockholders of the member banks of the Federal Reserve District. Polls for this year's election will open November 17 and will close December 1.

Of the nine directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of this district, the terms of three expire December 31, one in each of the three classes "A," "B" and "C." The Class "A" director, elected by the member banks with a capital and surplus of $500,000 and over, is usually a banker. The Class "B" director, elected by the member banks of less than $500,000 capital and surplus, must be engaged in commerce, agriculture or some other industry. The Class "C" director is designated by the Federal Reserve Board in Washington and cannot be an officer, director, employee or stockholder of any bank.

C. K. McIntosh of the Bank of California, San Francisco, is the retiring director of Class "A." R. H. Cox, agriculturist of Madera, is the retiring director of Class "B." The retiring member of Class "C" is in probability Mr. Sprague in Washington to succeed himself, and it is possible the other directors will be re-elected.

The Los Angeles branch directors, consisting of seven, are chosen each year, four by the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco and the other three by the board in Washington. The Class "A" director of the First National Bank, Pasadena, December 31, 1926; Howard Whipple, president, First National Bank of Turlock, December 31, 1927; Class "B"—A. B. C. An Extensive Public Utility System

The Associated Gas and Electric

INCLUDING the Penn Public Service system, the Associated utility group supplies more than 800,000 consumers with electricity, gas and / or water in some 900 communities in New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine, Connecticut, Vermont, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and the City of Manila. The combined population is estimated in excess of 2,000,000.

The public utility properties included in the system have been in continuous operation for varying periods up to 73 years. Annual sales of electricity increased approximately nine times between 1912 and 1924 and the number of electric consumers increased five times. In 1924 there were fifteen times as many stockholders as in 1919.

Net earnings of the subsidiary and affiliated companies for the twelve months ended May 31st, 1925, were $10,439,544. After deducting bond interest and other prior charges there remained $5,452,772 available for interest on Warrants and Convertible Debenture Certificates. This is equal to four times the requirements. It is estimated that 80% of the earnings of the system are derived from electricity.

The Associated Gas & Electric Company recently offered 6 1/2% Interest Bearing Option Warrants, which are now selling at $96.00 each. They can be exchanged later on for one share of $6.50 Dividend Series Preferred Stock, with a bonus of one-half share of common stock, together with the right to purchase one share of common stock for $20 between March 1, 1926, and September 1, 1927; or one share for $30 between September 1, 1927, and September 1, 1930.

Over a period of time the 6 1/2% Interest Bearing Option Warrants, in our opinion, should prove a profitable as well as desirable investment for surplus funds.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The cotton crop report for the United States, issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, at 11 o'clock this morning, showed a surplus of 1,000,000 bales over the 1924 crop. This is the largest surplus since 1919, when there was a surplus of 1,200,000 bales. The 1925 crop is estimated at 10,000,000 bales, compared with 9,000,000 bales in 1924. The surplus is due to a combination of factors, including a late start to the season, a long growing season, and a favorable weather.

This was followed by a break in the market for cotton futures, which fell from 15 to 14 1/2 cents. The break was caused by the news that the U. S. government had decided to increase the cotton surplus by 1,000,000 bales. This news was followed by a rally of 1/2 cent to 15 cents.

OIL BUSINESS ANALYZED

Reports of Five California Companies Held to Show Fixed Charges and Dividends Easily Earned

BY ARTHUR L. BREWER

Fluctuations in the price of oil and oil products notwithstanding, one is impressed, upon careful comparison of the financial reports of five leading oil companies whose securities are listed on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, by the ease with which they earn their fixed charges and dividends.

In the twelve months ended June 30, 1925, the General Petroleum Corporation earned its interest on its entire funded debt 18.48 times; the Union Oil Company of California, 17.48 times, and the Associated Oil Company, 16.51 times. These figures, of course, are arrived at before amortization, depreciation, depletion, labor and incidental costs, all of which are considered to be charges after bonds.

EARNINGS VS. DIVIDENDS
The following comparisons of earnings and dividends per share are made on the basis of the average number of common shares on which dividends were paid:

Company	Earnings per share	Dividends per share
General Petroleum Corp.	$1.25	$1.00
Union Oil Co. of California	$1.10	.90
Associated Oil Co.	$1.00	.80
Pacific Oil Co.	$1.00	.80
Standard Oil Co. of California	$1.00	.80

Other things being equal, companies doing a big volume of business in the production and sale of crude oil ought to have a better year-end profit than companies that produce a smaller volume of oil. In the twelve months to June 30, last.

At the same time, it is well to bear in mind a fact pointed out recently by Victor W. Killick, statistician of the Independent Petroleum Marketers' Association of California, that "pipe quotations do not constitute sales, much oil being sold above or below quoted prices."

General grades of crude increased in price at the well in California fields in the year to June 30, 1924. The price of some grades went up as high as 40 per cent over the quotations at the start of that year. Nevertheless, the first six months of the year was a period of sharply declining prices, a sharp rise characterizing the second half.

In the year to June 30, 1925, there was another sharp increase in the price of crude oil. During the last half of that year, the non-refinable grades (14 to 15.2 deg. Baume) ruled at $1.25 a barrel, a price higher than at any time since 1920. Of the refinable grades, prices ranged from $1.25 for 15 deg. to $1.60 for 29 deg. (the highest since 1921), and from $1.64 for 29 deg. to $1.85 for 35 deg. (the highest since 1921).

BEARING ON EARNINGS
These facts are directly relevant to the foregoing earnings comparisons. To lend point to the matter, one notes in General Petroleum's last annual report that the company's income for the year "was unfavorably affected by the increased cost of purchased crude and the heavy initial expense in connection with the distributing division activities."

Here also appears to be the principal explanation of the 23 per cent increase in the net income of Pacific Oil in the year to June 30, 1925. The actual increase was from $10,209,729 to $12,510,860. While incorporated to engage in all branches of the industry, Pacific apparently has not needed to become a refiner, because of its control of Associated Oil and its close connection with Standard Oil of California.

Now, if General Petroleum's earnings decline when crude oil prices go up, they might be expected to improve when crude oil prices go down. By the same token, if high crude prices increase the earnings of Pacific Oil, low crude prices might be expected to have an opposite effect.

This brings us to the point that crude oil has come down. On September 21, Standard Oil of California announced a new price schedule showing considerable reductions in prices of heavy oil. For instance, 14 deg. gravity was posted at $1 a barrel at the well in the northern fields, against $1.25 in general previously. The reduction of September 21 was not so extensive in the light grades.

OUTPUT DROPS
The latest General Petroleum report mentions "the decline in production of light oil" in the United States as a whole, and a resultant "draft on stocks of high-grade refinable crude oil." In this connection, Pacific Oil, while showing in the last annual report that 80.75 per cent of its production (for the calendar year 1924) was obtained from the Sunset field, states specifically that "the production consists principally of light oil having considerable value for refinery purposes."

Henequen Sales for Yucatan Are Reported Heavy
MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8.—The trade and the general soundness financially of the Mexican State of Yucatan are likely to be assured during the coming henequen season by the recent heavy sales made by the Henequen Co-operative Society, which is a government controlled, a report by Gov. Enrique Monteverde to President Calles says.

The operations amount to 17,000,000 pesos and include 175,000 bales to the International Harvester Company for delivery between now and March, next, 14,000 to the Plymouth Cordage Company and smaller sales to other concerns on similar conditions. The price to the International Harvester Company was $1.3 cents a pound.

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHY
BY WILLIAM FEATHER
IF WE all knew how slight is the difference in effort required to produce high-grade and low-grade work there would be mighty little low-grade work turned out.

Sloppy work is usually the result of a sloppy habit of mind. Clean-cut work is the result of a clean-cut habit of mind.

A business house can be no better than the individuals in it.

And a business organized by progressive individuals succeeds, while a sloppy individual and a sloppy business founder in the sea of despair.

Shipments of Grapes Larger Than Year Ago

Two weeks ago shipments of all varieties of grapes from California were approximately 4000 cars less than they were a year ago to the same date, but since then shipments have materially increased and on the 1st inst. this year's shipments exceeded last year's at the same date by almost 2000 cars, according to a report made yesterday by the American Fruit Growers, Inc., of California.

There was every indication of shipments running over 1000 cars a day for the next two weeks, but with an actual car shortage, loadings will probably be reduced from 800 to 400 cars below what they would be were there ample refrigerator equipment, the report stated. The quality of all fruit varieties has materially improved during the last week. Many more cars of U. S. No. 1 grapes have been loaded than was possible two years ago. Weather conditions are now ideal with every indication of a continuance of good weather.

The market has gradually advanced on all varieties from two weeks ago to $1.00 and in some cases slightly higher for Zinfandel, $1.10 for Chardonnay and Muscat, and $1.15 for Alphonse. Muscat has advanced to $1.25, Burgundy and Sultanina $1.40 to $1.45.

Trade Condition in Los Angeles Field Reported

Slackening of wholesale trade as compared with September, with large retail stores reporting a satisfactory volume of sales, is noted in Bradstreet's weekly report on business conditions in the Los Angeles area, which says:

"Wholesale trade quiet compared to favorable condition of the market."

Assuming that a man had bought at San Pedro a barrel of fuel oil a day for the four years ended June 30, 1925, he would have paid average daily prices as follows: Year to June 30, 1921, $1.52 per barrel; to June 30, 1922, $1.03; to June 30, 1923, $1.03; to June 30, 1924, $1.17, and to June 30, 1925, $1.17.

On this basis, the reduction in the price of fuel oil, like the price of crude, may be followed by a betterment in General Petroleum's earnings. Per contra, as Pacific Oil's business is heavily a fuel oil proposition, the question is whether the reduction in fuel oil prices will be more than offset by an increase in the company's sales.

Points like these have to be borne in mind by people interested in the oil stocks when the word goes forth that crude oil, fuel oil, gasoline or other petroleum product prices have been reduced or advanced.

Net Operating Income of Rail Lines Advances
WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The net operating income of the country's Class 1 railroads was placed by the Bureau of Railroad Economics tonight at $124,864,465 for August, against $95,708,567 for August, 1924.

For the first eight months this year, the net earnings were $662,762,405, said the bureau, which is maintained by the railroads. If this represented a 4.65 per cent annual return based on the carriers' property investment figures. The gross operating revenue was placed at $555,356,870, an increase of $45,850,760, compared with the same month last year, and operating expenses totalled $333,869,550, an increase of $15,194,375, while freight traffic measured in net ton miles was nearly 15 per cent greater than in August, 1924.

BUSINESS TODAY

Nation's Annual Income Is On Increase, But Contrary to Radical Opinion, Wage and Salaried Workers Are Getting More Than Their Proportional Share of Gain.

By PAUL WILLARD GARRETT
In the year following the war, from about $14,900,000,000 in 1919, the bureau reckons wages and salaries rose to $34,749,000,000 in 1925. Activity on the manufacturing industries in 1925 lifted the total that year to a still higher level, $41,460,000,000, but the deflationary influence of 1921 reduced the figure to $34,700,000,000.

In themselves these figures are not significant except for what they show in the tremendous growth of the amount of our national income that goes into wages and salaries. They are getting more. The bureau finds that in 1925 wages and salaries represented 55 per cent of the nation's total income, but that in 1922 pay rolls accounted for 58 per cent of the total. The statisticians rest their case here, but would agree that their figures understate rather than overstate the relative gain in pay rolls. Since 1919 was a good year in business and 1921 a poor one, it seems reasonable to presume that the 55 per cent figure is a bit high for the prewar period and 58 per cent a trifle low for the post-war period.

TRADE STORIES
The State that claims most in the volume of its pay rolls is not always the one that suffers least when business storms come. The bureau finds that in a State like Michigan, where a large proportion of the workers are dependent upon one industry, a turn for the worse in business does the most damage.

On the other hand, States in which industry is diversified are better able to withstand bad times for the reason that difficulties do not arise in all branches simultaneously. It so happens that New York not only pays out more in wages and salaries than any other State, but offers a better diversification of interests than almost anywhere else.

GOLD IMPORTS MAY REACH $30,000,000
By A. F. NIGHT WIRE
NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Inauguration of gold shipments from London with about $4,000,000 thus far engaged by New York banks, is expected to be followed by additional consignments of approximately $25,000,000. These shipments are looked for in a few days, being anticipated by the fact that the large consignments from South Africa have been arriving in London. The easier feeling prevailing in the market is attributed to the knowledge that the Bank of England is prepared to release gold at 100.

Musical lovers of the Southwest met again for a rare treat of musical talent through the courtesy of the Pacific Electric Railway Company, presenting another group of similar artists in one of the programs called "A Night at Mt. Lowe," with the entire musical reflecting the charm of the rugged mountain resort.

Heading the roster of outstanding artists on the two-hour de luxe concert were Claire Meloni, concert pianist, who was spontaneously acclaimed by the Chamber Music Society when she played with them recently at the tower studio, and Vera Barstow, one of the leading women violinists of the world, who presented groups of selections from the foremost composers of the world.

Indicative of the whole trend of the evening, Joseph (Toni) accomplished, cellist, and Catherine Jackson, talented harpist, demonstrated their mastery of their instruments in beautiful solo and duet numbers, with the same success being reached by Alice Lohr, contralto, and Frank (Tiger) bass, who also sang in solo and duet composition.

"Little Dickie" Brandon made a feature of the children's hour program when he gave a farewell boom for Uncle John, who sails at noon tomorrow with five of the prominent stars of KHJ aboard the S.S. City of Los Angeles, accompanied by the seventh excursion of the Chamber of Commerce to the Hawaiian Islands.

With Dickie on the program at twilight were David Rosenthal, 14 years of age, and Harold Marshall, 12, pupils of the Thompson Progressive School for saxophones, accompanied by Kathryn Thompson, Beatrice Rains, screen juvenile; Joyce Coad, the "Little Red Riding Hood"; Mrs. Max Paul Keppel with poems; Mrs. R. L. McCalley with children's stories, and the "Piggy Wiggy" girls with music through the courtesy of the Piggy Wiggy store. The program was opened by Prof. Walter Syl-

Yesterday's matinee was another proof of the splendid standards of the Pacific States Electric Company, who sponsor these afternoon musicals. During the hour from 2:30 until 3:30 o'clock they presented the Colombian Trio, composed of the Hernandez brothers, with their strange and appealing instruments; Beatrice Howds, contralto; Mona Content, concert pianist; Helen Mead Little, flutist, and Carolyn LeFevre, violinist.

The thousands of baseball fans in this part of the country yesterday were again tuned in on KHJ for its broadcast of the play-by-play account of the world series game being played on Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, with the flood of telegrams and phone messages continuing to pour into the studio, every point. The station at 10:30 a. m. again will come on the air with the preliminaries of the third game, being played at Washington, the first ball to be thrown at 11 o'clock, Pacific time.

In recognition of the increasing use of automotive vehicles in the Latin-American countries, the National Automotive School of Los Angeles gave a luncheon at the City Club yesterday for the local consular representatives of nearly a dozen South and Central American republics, with the object of informing them of the facilities for instruction in automotive engineering now offered Spanish-speaking persons in Los Angeles.

The luncheon followed a tour of inspection by the consuls through the plant of the school earlier in the day. The luncheon meeting, which was presided over by Henry C. Niese, Argentine Consul in Los Angeles, was addressed briefly by the founder of the school, Mrs. T. A. Rosenkrantz, the head of the Spanish department, Samuel E. Bender, Dr. R. B. von Klein Smid, president of the University of Southern California, and several of the assembly's consuls.

The luncheon guests included Dr. Gorman Adams, Consul of Colombia; Dr. Roberto, Consul of Costa Rica; R. Arturo Ramirez, Consul of Guatemala; P. Alfonso Pasador, B. A. Almada, respectively Consul and commercial attaché from Mexico; Francisco Papinosa, Consul from Nicaragua; Manuel Yrala, Consul from Peru; and Robert E. Tracy, Consul from San Salvador.

Miller looked at the picture and immediately decided the "buck" was in fact a doe and launched a search for the publicized version. He called at Miss Gilbert's home, 1211 McClellan street, several days ago, and in the actress's absence, was informed the deer had been sent to the taxidermist for mounting.

Yesterday, Miller said, he called Miss Gilbert's home on the telephone and asked if he could see the deer's hide and horns. The party on the other end of the line then informed him, Miller said, that the deer was shot by a Hollywood business man in Ventura county.

Miller said yesterday he would seek to apprehend the slayer of the deer and ask the District Attorney's office to issue a complaint against the Nimrod for killing, in violation of the State game laws.

A record for a murder verdict carrying the extreme penalty was set in Judge Keetch's court yesterday afternoon when a jury found Sidney Adams, a negro, guilty of first degree murder after twenty-six minutes of deliberation. The verdict was without recommendation, which means the infliction of the death penalty.

The trial was begun Wednesday morning and required little more than a day and a half. Dep. Dist. Atty. Schejman prosecuted.

Adams was accused of killing his wife, Annie, at the home of Mrs. Lillian Cohen, colored, on the night of August 2, last. His wife had left him and he shot her after a quarrel resulting from his efforts to have her return.

Judge Keetch will pronounce sentence Tuesday.

Which made it a very bright party, according to Hollywood observers, as it was on the same occasion that Mary Akis revealed she and Edwin Carve, motion-picture director, have, in reality, been man and wife for some time.

It developed too that the engagement announced by Miss Adore was meant for the film colony gossip since for some days there has been a report of an elopement.

"That was going too far," Gillmore said yesterday. "We obviously are not married and never intend to be. Miss Adore is as anxious to have the matter straightened out as I am."

Miss Adore refused to state whether, in the light of events, she has engagement with Gaston Glass still is on.

DEER RELEASED IN PARK

County Reserve Gets Four Specimens of Arizona Mule
Variety From Kaibab Forest

In line with the plan of the County Game Warden to establish a refuge for deer and other wild animals of a gentle nature in the county park at Big Pine, Swartout Valley, four yearling specimens of the Arizona mule deer, brought here recently from the Kaibab National Forest, were released yesterday in the park, according to Acting Game Warden Turner.

The park including several hundred acres, is an excellent natural habitat for the deer, Turner said, and every effort will be made to protect the deer against both human and animal marauders.

WILL BE RELEASED
A number of specimens of California deer have been released in the park and when the herd has increased sufficiently to warrant such action, Turner said, numbers of the deer will be released at times from the park to roam at will over the mountain country.

The mule deer, which Turner described as magnificent specimens, were brought to Los Angeles by motor truck by Assistant Game Warden George Taylor, who made the trip to Kaibab Forest in company with Supervisor McClellan and representatives of the county

But Killer of "Buck" That

"And the Game Warden'll getcha if you don't watch out."

This was the warning issued yesterday by Assistant County Game Warden Miller to young film actresses who are apt to accept invitations from well-meaning press agents to pose as Diana who have conquered deer of questioned sex with their mighty rifles.

The warning came as an aftermath to a published photograph of Eugenia Gilbert, film actress, standing next to what was captioned a "six-point buck" which, the printed matter stated, Miss Gilbert, "one of the best markswomen of her profession, brought down on her ranch next to the Malibu."

No sooner had the picture been circulated than indignant sportsmen and "taxpayers" began to flood the Game Warden's office with letters in re the "six-point buck."

"This is the queerest 'buck' I ever have seen," penned one correspondent, remarking on the fact that the picture disclosed no horns which are supposed to be part of the essential equipment of the male of the species.

Miller looked at the picture and immediately decided the "buck" was in fact a doe and launched a search for the publicized version. He called at Miss Gilbert's home, 1211 McClellan street, several days ago, and in the actress's absence, was informed the deer had been sent to the taxidermist for mounting.

Yesterday, Miller said, he called Miss Gilbert's home on the telephone and asked if he could see the deer's hide and horns. The party on the other end of the line then informed him, Miller said, that the deer was shot by a Hollywood business man in Ventura county.

Miller said yesterday he would seek to apprehend the slayer of the deer and ask the District Attorney's office to issue a complaint against the Nimrod for killing, in violation of the State game laws.

Arms Kept from Injury in Four-Story Drop

Sweeping his 4-year-old granddaughter into his arms when the elevator in which they were riding at the Lane Mortgage Building, 208 West Eighth street, got beyond the control of the operator due to an electrical shortage, George B. Hall, 53 years of age, a builder, of 1121 Montana street, yesterday saved the girl from injury but he was injured probably fatally when the elevator crashed against a bumper in the basement.

One other passenger, Roy A. Miller, 30 years of age, a salesman, of 919 Harper street, suffered serious injuries, while the operator, P. Singleton, escaped unhurt.

Hall, and Miller were removed to the Receiving Hospital. It is believed Hall is suffering from a fractured skull. He was later taken to the Osteopathic Hospital. Miller received internal injuries. He is expected to recover. The injured were treated by Police Surgeon Saverin.

WHAT'S THE USE?
Somebody tells how honey can be made from quince, but we can't see the use of it.

DEARER THAN IVORY
If rubber keeps on advancing in price a lot of people's necks soon will be far more valuable than their heads.

THE OPPORTUNITY
If two women are to become rival candidates for Governor of Texas one may see where a mere man will be back on the job ere long.

SPREAD OUT THEM
A lot of people who boast that they are broad-minded don't go far enough. They ought to announce that they have broad, shallow minds.

MUCH OF A MANY
Court holds that laziness is not of itself a reason for divorce. This is mighty fine of the judge. Otherwise the country might be all cluttered up with divorces.

MUSICAL INSECTS
An article in the Literary Digest informs us that there are quite a number of insect musicians. Some of them, alas, live in apartment-houses and attempt the saxophone.

OFF WITH THE DANCE
Now that Venice becomes a part of Los Angeles the saxophones in the bay suburb will cease their moaning at midnight. The Venetians have been accustomed to hopping all night if they so wished. Now they will have a chance to enjoy a needed ration of sleep.

GOING SOME
D'Annunzio has not been fighting any of his wars for a long time, but the bald eagle of Italy has again broken into song. He has written a poem commemorative of speed—the speed of the motor. The inspiration lies in his passion for showing his people that it can be done. The bard has himself shown considerable speed in his career.

SOMETHING ON FOOT
It is said that there are nearly 1,000,000 different shapes, sizes, fashions and patterns in shoes for humans. No wonder that footwear commands money when so many styles must be made or carried. There was a day in Holland when virtually all the shoes were made of wood and only four sizes were in service. Those should have been the happy days, but the Dutchmen were even then using their footboards to kick with. In these times a man may scan Broadway for a month without seeing two pairs of footwear alike.

WOULD PAY HALF
There's a case in the Nebraska Supreme Court in which a debtor refused to pay more than 50 per cent of an obligation of $7000 he contracted seven years ago. He bases his case upon the assumption that the purchasing power of money in less than 50 per cent of what it was seven years ago and, therefore, he should not be expected to pay more than half the amount of his debt. He seems to forget that he had the use of the money when it went a long way. Possibly the Supreme Court will be able to remind him of a few things that tend to preserve the integrity of an obligation.

HARNESSING THE SHANNON
A contract has been let for the electrification of Ireland's principal river. As a source of song and poetry the Shannon's course has been run; it will now run into ergs, watts and volts. A greater Limerick will dignify its shore, but about that city no heartfelt Limericks will be written. It's like tampering with the heart of Erin—transforming its passionate pulsations into a great power pump. Athlone and Tipperary, the green hills and the loughs, are already being boomed. When the widely scattered sons of Erin go back to visit Ireland they will find that prose and prosperity have taken the place of poverty and picturesque.

AMONG EXPERTS
Some writers are knocking the efficiency engineers. They say they are taking most of the joy out of life. They are killing the human factor. Under their dispensation all workers would be registered as machines. The only contact between the employer and employed would be through the time clock. They live only to speed up production and keep the human engine in high gear. They take sentiment out of business and live only for material results. These criticisms are not altogether correct. There is a field for the efficiency man, although he is the theme of considerable jest as well as revilement. He belongs to big business and, usually, the business is already so big that the workers are already cogs in a machine. The smaller industry may readily dispense with his services and build up contacts through loyalty and the personal touch.

FENG'S HOSTILE GESTURE

Quixotic, though unmistakably plain and intrepid, is Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang's hostile gesture toward Great Britain. The Chinese Christian general is telling his people and the world that China too long has bowed her neck to British aggression and that the only honorable way she can indicate her resentment of it is to declare war upon her aggressor. He admits the impossibility of a successful military campaign against the well-trained and splendidly equipped British forces, but he says that it is his duty as well as that of every other soldier in China to make any sacrifice in behalf of his country in order to convince the world of the earnestness of China's attitude.

Although Marshal Feng's statement may be received with a smile by Europe and America, in view of the certainty of the defeat of China in such a contest of arms unless she were aided by another power, those who have studied the situation in the Orient closely will see in his utterance something more than an act of bravado or of mock sacrificial heroism. It is a clear, strong, concrete protest against the intolerable state of affairs forced upon China by Britain. For the Shanghai and Canton risings were merely local and spasmodic and were quickly suppressed, while the boycott of British subjects was a half-hearted affair fraught with the commercial futility of native merchants whose moneyed interests kept them from carrying it too far. A further extension of the zone of violence might have precipitated something resembling war, but hostilities were confined to river gunboat raids and street riots of which little or nothing is now being told by the cables.

By the wholesale spread of peaceful propaganda among the Chinese the British, while knowing better than to attempt to vindicate their aggressive position, have sought in every way possible to placate China, even to the point of considering her claim for the abolition of extraterritoriality. But these representations have not had a conciliatory influence upon Peking. Marshal Feng plainly indicates the trend of opinion among the Chinese intellectuals who hold what reins of government are left in China when he says that no compromise should be made with these imperialists who seek further to exploit that unhappy country. They have little hope that the treaty conference of the powers, to be held this month, will result in any ultimate advantage to China. They stand for autonomy and nothing else will satisfy their aspirations.

Those who believe that Feng, by his hostile gesture toward Britain, is trying to consolidate the discordant forces of the various Chinese war lords and thus establish amicable relations among them in order to prevent the new civil strife predicted for this month are not so shrewd in their view of the situation as they may think. Long before the new civil war was talked of or the Shanghai rioting had reached its height—in fact, early in June—he was voicing similar sentiments against the British.

Aside from Feng's professed willingness to make a great military sacrifice in order to indicate the earnestness of the Chinese in their desire to throw off the British yoke there is just one consideration which might have inspired his open talk of war upon Britain and that is that, in the event of such a war, China might be able to rely upon Russia to see her through to victory. Lloyd George thinks he sees a secret Russo-Chinese entente. To be sure, this contingency might follow China's declaration of war, but despite the efforts to spread Soviet propaganda in that country and that China has received arms and munitions from Moscow in recent months, there is no convincing proof that such an alliance exists. Peking has flatly denounced Soviet time and again and has tried to keep Russian propagandists out of the country. As for the purchase of arms of Russian manufacture by China, this has been done mainly because Moscow was the handiest market and because Britain had made it difficult for the Chinese to import them by sea.

But would China really be foolish enough to call upon Russia to help her? Even for she would know in advance that it would mean the domination of her country by Russia whether or not she won the war—a condition far more intolerable than the present one.

What rankles most in the oriental breast is the fact that foreigners, chiefly British subjects, have been shooting down unarmed and innocent Chinese in China. There is something arrestive in Feng's resentful question, "When have the Chinese ever perpetrated such an atrocity against foreigners?" And whatever the merits of the case may be as to the justification of those shootings, one cannot but admire the indignant protest, though it is sincerely to be hoped, for the peace of the world, that it will not result in a war with Britain.

PROFESSIONAL KILLERS

In the old days warring kings, princes and predatory barons hired trained soldiers to do their fighting, as modern criminals hire trained lawyers to do their law. No question of nationality or sentiment for or against a principle or a cause entered into the arrangement. Love of adventure and excitement or the lure of plunder—sometimes nothing but the thirst for blood—were the sole incentives recruiting such armies. These mercenaries called themselves soldiers of fortune. In reality they were professional killers.

Such conscienceless warriors were within their legal rights. Sometimes they fought on the right side of a cause, sometimes on the wrong. It made no difference to the free lancer whether he was serving a ruthless tyrant or an enlightened liberator. All he asked for was gold, and gold he got.

No doubt the endless petty wars of the Dark Ages that devastated Central Europe and the Near East were largely due to the activities of these professional washbucklers. Fighting was their trade. They advertised it and boasted it, using much the same methods as the tailor, the grocer, the seedman and the furniture-maker to extend the demands for their wares.

We are thankful we no longer live in the Dark Ages. The American nation today leads the world in peaceful commerce. Our faces are sternly set against the continued slaughter of the innocents, especially as it was conducted by the professional killers, when wars of plunder and conquest were the sport of kings.

To outlaw war is the avowed object of millions of our best American citizens. Our women, through their clubs and other organizations, are unsparing in their time, money and talents to promote this worthy end. Churches, educators, philanthropists and statesmen are working to make American civilization the portal to the coming universal peace temple. To all of these the following news item from Northern Africa should be of singular interest:

Spies from the Walbilla country, where the Americans have been causing heavy damage, report that families having members killed in air raids attribute their losses entirely to the American flyers. Bands of avengers, with their feelings worked to the highest pitch, have sworn to avenge their dead.

We no longer live in the Dark Ages—or do we? Hiring out for gold, glory or gore under foreign banners is not an accepted form of American patriotism—or is it? What grievance has the United States against the Berber inhabitants of Northern Africa that our nationals are helping to fight the battles of France and Spain?

If we are really in earnest to "outlaw war," wouldn't it be a good idea to start by outlawing "professional killers"? Why should we regard with equanimity the slaying of innocent Rifis by American hunters with air bombs and grow eloquently indignant over the shooting of lions and leopards with bows and arrows? Are the Rif tribesmen more dangerous to our American ideals than the wild beasts of the African jungle?

THE DOOR OPENERS

The ex-convict and confessed murderer, John J. McNamara, union-labor leader of sabotage, prematurely released from the California penitentiary, was recently convicted by a jury of threats against free builders of Indianapolis. It indicates a healthy tone to Hoover sentiment in favor of decent Americanism. It was but a short time preceding this act of justice by the Indiana jury that, influenced by radical propaganda, officials of California turned loose upon the public the hop-fieled murderers, "Blackie" Ford, after he had served but eleven years of a life sentence.

It is not safe to permit such miscarriages of justice, such menaces against the security of honest and industrious men and women, to pass with but casual mention. There are other murderers looking to the next best chance to slip off the stripes, and it is well for order-loving people to be on guard. The sense of security imparted by the conviction and imprisonment of murderers is shocked to find the vicious criminals again walking the streets among honest and law-abiding citizens.

Expensive courts are maintained to secure the just punishment of murderers, and it is unthinkable that another part of the intricate civic machinery is maintained to undo what has been accomplished at so great an expense of labor and money. Justice may at times suggest the paroling or pardoning of convicts, but it is unfair to the people who are placed at the mercy of ex-convicts, particularly murderers, who have shrewdly played the "good-boy" part in order to secure their freedom, to turn them loose at the instance of maudlin sentiment or financed propaganda.

A ROGUES' GALLERY

Some new portraits have been hung up in the rogues' gallery by David Starr Jordan, who received the award for the best solution of the war question. Following are the six scamps as he sees them:

- (1) The militarist who craves "a mark that wiggles when it is hit."
- (2) The politician who fears loss of power and peace in war, in Treitschke's words, "the swift remedy for all unrest."
- (3) The man who scents "from afar the cadaverous odor of lucre."
- (4) The exploiter of backward nations.
- (5) The mob which follows every band wagon and is often led by empty-headed and hot-headed youth.
- (6) The pessimist who says, "There always has been war."

THE BEST LAID PLANS

When Jones was a pedestrian
He muttered to himself:
"When I become a wealthy man
And have sufficient pelf—
I'm going to buy a great big car.
And people that I see Afloot on highways near and far I'll ask to ride with me."

When Jones was a pedestrian
He said: "I mean some day
To own a brand-new bang-up car,
And strictly I'll obey
The speed laws, when my labor done,
I drive it through the town—
And certainly I'll never run
A single person down."

When Jones got rich and bought a car
His envious neighbor's eyed Him sitting with his big cigar
Upon his rich inside.
But when he hit the thoroughfare
Not one among the throng
Which stood beside the pavement there
Was asked to go along.

And motor cops in strident tones
When he drove into town Would cry, "Look out, that Is sure to run you down!"
Which shows that what we think we'll do
When wealthy we have got,
And mean it, when we think it, too,
We probably shall not!

the lingo writers who prophesy and so suggest wars and even outline plans for the sake of selling articles and books.

A wing in the gallery could be quite easily filled by yellow journals that think more of a few extra copies than they do of their country. They put paltry pennies ahead of patriotism.

There is another rogue who should not be omitted—the American who has difficulty being courteous. If not generous, to the foreigners in our midst.

The unpatriotic money-lender, who finances foreign wars and supplies arms and ammunition regardless of the reaction upon his own land, should have a prominent niche in the hall of scamps.

Then, too, if the so-called Christian nations will be more interested in dispatching messages and messengers of peace instead of rum and opium, the sword will more speedily become a pruning hook.

The rogues' gallery is entirely too well populated. And if the rogues could all be confined there they would be larger hope of universal and continuous peace.

SUNDAY RIVALRY
The preachers admit that they have a hard time in competing with the golf courses for Sunday business, but a man who can do nine holes in an afternoon should not begrudge a morning hour or two in the cathedral.

AN OLD ROCKING CHAIR

There's an old rocking chair at the auction,
Made of red and a plain lacquered wood,
With a cushion of patchwork and Tidy.
That depicts a child's face in a hood:
And I wonder whose fingers have shaped it.
Whose the hands that arranged it
It just so,
Securing these two with a tasseled loop.
Just to play a brief part in the show.

For the years have outgrown this worn treasure,
Once adorning the heart of some home,
And have cast it aside with the rubbish,
With the leaves of a tattered brown tome;
Just awaiting the word of the bidder.
And the sound when the gavel shall fall,
Forgotten by those who have loved it best.
In the gloom of an auctioneer's hall.

LETTERS TO The Times

The Lafayette Escadrille

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 5.—(To the Editor of The Times.) Our government is perfectly justified in its stand against the Americans fighting for the French and Spanish governments against a small Moroccan tribe. The Rifian chief has offered a reward of $5000 for "every member of the Lafayette Escadrille, dead or alive. I hope the prize will be speedily won.

My sympathies in this late war were altogether with the French. They are now altogether against the French and Spanish, who have no legitimate business in Morocco and it is a shame and a disgrace that men calling themselves Americans should be found fighting against a small tribe on the side of two large European powers in their efforts at unjustified aggression.

I sincerely hope that our government will enforce a law and limit against Col. Sweeney and those for whom he seems to speak when he, in defiance of his allegiance to his own government, says, "We will allow nothing to stop us from carrying on the work upon which we have set out."

This work, be it remembered, is piracy and murder, for Sweeney has no standing in law or justice as a belligerent nor those with him from the United States. More power to Abd-el-Krim.

HENRY J. WEEKS.

Snakes and Hags

COVINA, Oct. 5.—(To the Editor of The Times.) In a recent issue you publish a letter from Mrs. J. G. Oliver from Miami, Fla., in which she states that, as a visiting Californian, the imaginative Floridaans are giving her the "razz" about California being a "snake State" and that hags have been seen leaving snake dens in California with 200 snakes hanging to their bodies and that during heavy rains so many snakes are washed down from the mountains that California citizens go out in their yards every morning with shovels to kill them—all of which stories, the California lady states, she resents strenuously as maligning our fair State.

It is pretty ragged work on the part of the Floridaans if they cannot find a more appropriate subject than snakes to hit the California visitor about—as it is such an apparent case of "people in glass houses," as of all the snake States Florida is without doubt the snakeiest, with their huge diamond-back rattlers and water moccasins. In years past I have had occasion to travel extensively through back country of both States. I have spent months in the mountains of Southern California, from the Salinas River to the Mexican line and have seen but two rattlesnakes in California—both on the same day in the high mountains back of Ojai. In Florida, on the contrary, I daily encountered rattlers of the large diamond-back variety in the "rough" back country and moccasins in swampy sections. When the fad for rattlesnake hat bands and belts was rampant in the East several years ago the bulk of the skins for these purposes came from Florida and I believe that the largest specimen of a rattlesnake ever found in this country was a Florida product.

The merry Floridaans should find some subject less of a boomerang nature with which to calumniate Mrs. Oliver's visit to their State.

McNAMARA SENTENCE

The sentencing of John J. McNamara to jail on conviction under an indictment for blackmail is not the basis for as much gratification as some who look at it superficially might be led to believe. If McNamara had been dealt with as his crimes merited ten years ago he would not have been in a position since to have committed the further and comparatively minor crimes of terrorism for which he was sentenced a few days ago.

In 1922 McNamara finished a nine-year sentence for dynamiting the Llewellyn Iron Works in Los Angeles, a crime to which he confessed. This was one of a series of acts of terrorism which resulted in many murders. The culmination of the conspiracy was the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times Building, in which score of innocent persons were slaughtered and twice as many employees and others injured.

McNamara's brother, James R., confessed to the Times bombing and the tender-hearted law exacted for that wholesale murder only a life imprisonment. John J. confessed to the Llewellyn bombing. Both these dynamitings and many others were part of the same conspiracy, and all implicated in that plot were morally and legally guilty of the murders that resulted from their crime.

If the law had done its duty then neither John J. nor James R. would ever again be in a position to commit murder or to threaten to commit it. The Indianapolis sentence of Wednesday last is a disturbing reminder that the McNamara type of criminal is too strongly entrenched in American life. He is a menace not to the social order, but to hapless individuals who may be in his path. But more than all else he is a menace to the good name of American labor.—(River-side Enterprise.)

HAD GONE FAR ENOUGH

A married couple were knocked down by a motor car. The car dashed away. The police arrived and found the couple bursting with indignation.

"Do you know the number of the car?" asked the policeman.

"Yes," replied the husband, "by a strange coincidence, the first two numbers formed my age and the second two the age of my wife."

"John," said the wife, "we will let the matter drop at once."

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAD LEVY

One of the beautifully appointed affairs of the week was the tea with which Miss Beatrice Ward, attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley C. Ward of West Twenty-first street, entertained yesterday afternoon, ostensibly honoring her house guest, Miss Katherine Burman, who recently announced her engagement to Charles Partridge, Jr., but the real motive for the affair was the announcement of Miss Ward's engagement to Jesse Lawrence Carr, son of H. B. Carr, president of the First National Bank of Porterville.

The news was told to a small group of the hostess's most intimate friends and the secret was revealed when little Shirley Ward, daughter of the John Shirley Wards and niece of the bride-elect, handed each guest a huge dahlia, to which was tied by narrow gold ribbons two cards with the names of the betrothed. The wedding will be one of the events of spring.

The news came as a pleasant surprise to the guests, so closely have Miss Ward and Mr. Carr kept their secret.

The announcement of yesterday is the culmination of a romance which began when Miss Ward and Mr. Carr met during their college days at the University of California in Berkeley. Mr. Carr, who completed his course there, is a student at the medical school at An interesting feature of yesterday's engagement is that Miss Ward's elder sister Katherine (Mrs. Richard Bruce Carr, Jr.) met her husband while a student at University of California, and that his name also is Carr, although they are not in any way related, and that Dr. Robertson Ward met his bride at the same university as did his brother, Chandler Ward, the former marrying Miss Elizabeth Perry of Berkeley and the latter, Miss Margaret Monroe of San Francisco.

Home Again
Mr. and Mrs. Allen Culver of Menlo avenue have just returned from a trip through Eastern Canada, visiting in Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa, Toronto and then crossing over to Boston. They were accompanied by their eldest daughter, Miss Katherine Culver.

Felicitations
Congratulations are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elmer Middleton of Riverside, formerly of Los Angeles, over the arrival Monday of a tiny son, who is to be called Robert Ross Campbell.

Ceremony Postponed
Mr. and Mrs. L. Kay Grundy of Pasadena announce that the wedding of their daughter, Miss Lillian Claire Grundy, and Robert Ames Winthrop is indefinitely postponed.

In Gotham
Col. and Mrs. A. J. Read of Beverly Hills are in New York City, where they are domiciled at the Chatham Hotel, Vanderbilt avenue at Forty-eighth street.

Sunshine Carolers
A charmingly arranged program of the Sunshine Carolers will be given this evening at the Stillwell Hotel, Grand avenue at Ninth street, those included being Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Stillwell, soprano, and Clifford Tracy, tenor; Texas Edwards, second tenor; John Austin, bass; and Judson McMillan, second bass. A reception will follow the program.

For Bride-Elect
One of the most popular bride-elect of the season is Miss Ellen Kearney Patrick, for whom a number of delightful prenuptial affairs are being given. Yesterday afternoon Miss Edith Wiggs, daughter of Mrs. James Wiggs of 1210 Cimarmon street, entertained with a bridge tea at the Los Angeles

Country Club, honoring Miss Patrick, to which twenty-five guests were bidden.

Miss Wiggs, who has just returned from a three months' trip abroad, was in Florence, Italy, when the announcement of Miss Patrick's engagement was made here and contemplating this entertainment, purchased the favors, tally cards and other appointments for the tea there. The bridal motif was effectively carried out.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Alfred Kittredge Hamilton (Elizabeth Brown) gave a charmingly appointed bridge tea for Miss Patrick at her new home in Pasadena, this being the first of a series of affairs Mrs. Hamilton is planning this season. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton returned several weeks ago from their honeymoon trip.

Monday afternoon, the 12th inst., Mrs. Harry Gordon Martin is planning a shower and bridge tea for Miss Patrick at her home, 1208 Spruce street, Pasadena. Twenty-four guests being bidden. The pastel pink will be employed in the appointments of the affair, combined with ferns and tulle. Mr. and Mrs. Martin have just returned from a month's delightful trip to Alaska.

Week-End Trip
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robey Simmons of South Plymouth Boulevard are week-ending at their summer home, Mari-Walt, in Balboa Beach, having as their house guests Alice Gentile, Desire Dufresne, Ulysses Lappas and a few other stars of the Los Angeles Opera Company who are resting before leaving for the East. They went down yesterday and will be gone for several days.

University News
Theta Sigma Nu of University of Southern California entertained Saturday evening with a dance at the fraternity lodge in Portland Drive, honoring its pledges, the decorations being carried out in red and white, the fraternity colors.

The Theta Sigma Chapter of Kappa Delta Sorority of the University of Southern California recently entertained the members and pledges of all the campus societies and fraternities with a delightfully arranged house-warming in the new chapter house at 2711 Ellendale place. Gayly-colored Japanese lanterns were hung in the gardens, where the refreshments were served, 250 guests being bidden.

Hostesses of the evening included Miss Olive Armstrong, Miss Rosalind Williamson, Miss Bonnie Borouge, Miss Nedra Halfhill, Miss Eleanor Roehr, Miss Helen Morgan, Miss Frances McDowell, Miss Josephine Campbell, Miss Martha Carlisle, Miss Elizabeth Dannelley, Miss Margaret Ziegler, Miss Thelma Ferrie, Miss Bernice Nylin, Miss Eleanor Mix, Miss Marguerite Chapman and Miss Claire McIntyre.

Informal Tea
Honoring Mrs. Delight Simpson, who is enjoying an indefinite sojourn in Los Angeles, domiciled at the Derby Hotel in West Adams street, Mrs. Howard Scott Waring entertained with an informal tea at her home in Lexington avenue, Hollywood.

Mrs. Simpson's attractive daughter, Miss Constance Delight Simpson, who has been with her mother this summer in Santa Barbara, is visiting in London, Eng., where her young brother is at school. Miss Simpson was presented at the Court of St. James at a drawing-room in Buckingham Palace a year ago.

BENEFIT PERFORMANCE FOR SANTA BARBARA CHURCH TO BE STAGED

Episcopal clergymen of Southern California, under the chairmanship of Rev. George Davidson, D.D., of St. John's Church, have organized for the purpose of sponsoring the benefit to be given at the Philharmonic Auditorium on Wednesday evening, the 21st inst., intended to provide funds for the rebuilding of Trinity Church in Santa Barbara, which was damaged in the recent earthquake.

The ministerial committee has abandoned the usual hedge-podge entertainment generally gathered together for a benefit and instead is presenting a play which has proven its artistic and dramatic value in both London and New York. It is called "Egypt Speaks to Woman." It never has been seen on the Pacific Coast. The various characters will be impersonated by professionals who are volunteering their services.

"Egypt Speaks to Woman" is by Ruth Helen Davis, an actress-dramatist. The production will be staged by Mrs. Henry Herbert, wife of the Pilgrimage Play actor.

The various theaters and motion picture studios are providing the necessary scenery and properties.

The Cleveland (O.) circulating library, the third largest of its kind in the United States, is headed by a woman—Miss Lida A. Eastman, who has been following this kind of work for thirty-two years.

Diet and Health

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Miss L. has a grievance. She reduced from 175 to 155 in two months. She found she could not lose on 1200 calories any longer, so she cut down to 800 a day. For four days she went on a little eating spree of 1000(?) and gained eight pounds! From then on she steadily gained until she is up to 170 pounds. She used three different scales to verify this. She is 47 and does office work. She is sure there is something wrong with her.

How about your mathematical ability, Miss L.? That's mean, isn't it? Scuse it please, but I cannot believe that on 1600 calories you gained eight pounds in four days, and continued to gain. You should count the calories of the candy you ate?

If you were dropical and retaining a lot of water, you might gain that much, but if you were in that condition you could not continue to work. So I am inclined to think that my first impression is right. Do you eat a lot of salty things? Salt should be strictly cut down to the minimum while reducing because it does make you retain water and that of course makes the scale run up. You did not tell me your height but you evidently are a short lady; otherwise you would have reduced on 1200.

Now I suggest you go on 500 or 1000 a day and if necessary have one liquid diet day during the week of not more than 500 to 600 calories. Take any liquids you like—orange juice (100 c. to the glass) skim or buttermilk (80 c. to the glass) consommé, with or without any fat (8 ounces, 25 c.) or make broths with vegetable or beef extracts and no more than any calories. If you want tea or coffee you need not count them any calories unless you add cream or sugar (heavy cream, two tablespoons to the 100 c., and three cubes of sugar 100 c.).

Now tackle it again, Miss L. and don't weaken. If you are not sure of the approximate amount, give yourself the benefit of the doubt on the high count when reducing, and the reverse when you want to gain.

Have you our reducing instructions? Send for the booklet, (Enclose self-addressed double-stamped envelope and 10 cents in stamps.)

INCREASED SALIVA
Miss Y.: The salivary glands are under direct mechanical and chemical influence of the food in the mouth and they are also under nerve control. You will appreciate this nerve control when you think how the thought of certain foods you like will cause the mouth to "water"—and how nervousness can make the mouth dry. Nervousness can also increase the saliva.

Chronic inflammatory conditions in the mouth may cause an increased output to the disagreeable point also.

Have you been to a dentist to see if your teeth are in good condition? I would advise you to see a dentist and a physician also if the trouble does not clear up. Meanwhile you might rinse your mouth occasionally with alum water.

GOITER
L.: The chocolate tablets which I speak of in the column from time to time, as a cure for simple goiter.

Should one cupful of cream be added to the chocolate? The first half of the cream should be added to the chocolate and the second half should be added to the cream. The chocolate should be melted in a double boiler and the cream should be added to it. The mixture should be stirred until it is thick and then it should be poured into a mold and allowed to set.

THE LAST WORD.
BY ALMA WHITTAKER.

TOO BEAUTIFUL!

A cynic once remarked that it was woman's first duty to be beautiful. And I am bound to admit it is a duty that most of us would gladly, devotedly perform.

I can recall to this day the utterly hopeless dejection that stole over me as a little girl of 10 years of age or thereabouts when I overheard my father say, with curious affectionate amusement: "I am afraid our little girl is never destined to be a dangerous beauty."

PRAYED FOR CURLY HAIR.
Oh, but I wanted to be a dangerous beauty. I stole away and gazed earnestly in my mirror and for years afterward I hated mirrors. I envied the child who played with long golden curls and added a secret clause to my prayers for curly hair: "My mother evidently felt that curly hair would help, too. For beauties themselves are often to blame for these shattered romances. But that doesn't alter the fact that it is as difficult for a beautiful woman to win real happiness as for rich men to get into heaven.

It seems to be a tragic thing to be admired for one's beauty. Supreme consolation this for those of us who have not been so endowed.

But lately, in this atmosphere of numerous marriages and ready divorces, I have caught myself observing the happy, normal households, the women whose lives do seem to have been rounded out successfully, whose woes at least have been decent, ennobling woes, whose little tribulations from which none of us escape, are the normal, worthy, "natural" tribulations as distinct from the heartaches of unfaithfulness, shame, scandal.

HOMELY CULTIVATE CHARMS.
And these women are never "dangerous beauties." The loves and loyalties that are theirs were never won for their loveliness of person, for any obvious beauty, but always for charms of character, conduct, mentality.

Perhaps the lack of beauty inspires the homely to cultivate the worthier, more enduring charms. It is a terrible thing when a woman is both unbecomingly and unattractively then surely she is condemned. The radiant beauties, one observes, often have many lovers—brief, hectic interludes that so often leave tragedy behind when they fade. It must have been some lovely beauty who said: "You say to me—wards your affection's strong. Pray love me little, so you love me long."

So perhaps the unbecomingly among us do not inspire the fiery grand passions excited by the beautiful—but the calm enduring loves may still be sure.

FOUR CHARGED WITH STATUTORY OFFENSE

Asserted to have persuaded a 15-year-old girl to remain away from her home without the consent of her parents and occupy an apartment in a hotel at Washington and Main streets with two men to whom she was not related, Lee Hayes, Vernon Hurley, James Morrison and Milton Trudeau were charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor in a complaint filed yesterday in Judge Archibald's Juvenile Court. According to Dept. Dist. Atty. Joes, who filed the complaint, the defendants encouraged the girl to remain in the same room with Hayes and Trudeau. Joes said he had turned over to the authorities of Orange county another angle of the case, centering around an asserted wild party said to have been conducted at Seal Beach.

OPERA DISCORD DEVELOPS SUIT

Tyroler Charges Slander by Armitage

Asks $85,000 Damages in Court Action

Mrs. MacDonald Assumes Responsibility

A suit filed in the Superior Court by William Tyroler, asking for $85,000 damages from Merle Armitage for slander, and a statement from Mrs. Emily MacDonald assuming responsibility for an act which was held as largely responsible for starting the fight in the internal warfare of the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association.

Mrs. MacDonald, who is a member of the chorus, said she was guilty of the act for which Miss Mack, singer of the priestess role in "Aida," is said to have been told to "get out" by Armitage, general manager of the association. The office had tried to get Mrs. MacDonald to make such an objection, but she wouldn't do it. I am not going to let Miss Mack bear the blame for what I did. I want to shoulder responsibility for whatever I do, and I am not afraid of whatever may happen, either.

Statements in newspapers to the effect that Tyroler, who had been engaged as the director of the chorus of the opera, which closed its season last Monday night, had failed to appear at the last performance, and published statements by Mr. Armitage, from the basis of the Tyroler complaint, Attorney William Durham represents the plaintiff.

The complaint sets forth that Mr. Tyroler was engaged to direct one of the operas which the association was to present, but which he was not permitted to do.

SIX COMPLAINTS
Mr. Armitage, in the complaint, is accused of having said to Edwin Furman, one of the board of directors of the association, that Tyroler is not fit to even conduct

CHARLESTON INSPIRED BY RADIO Ether Jazz Charms Contest Winner

Miss Peggy Blake

MANY tests have been made in the past for an ideal radio listening location.

Last winter, after much experimentation in various suggested locations, Fred Christian of the Electric Lighting Supply Company, hit on Hollywoodland. At first a tent was erected on a high ridge back of the Hollywoodland sign, and a Radiola superheterodyne installed. Long-distance reception was perfect and points all over the United States were heard, as well as Canadian and Honolulu stations.

Through the courtesy of S. H. Woodruff of Hollywoodland, Christian was allowed the use of the demonstration home in that subdivision. It was found that reception was as good or better than up on the ridge. Further a high school chorus, for which Christian was director, and 11,000 is asked of General Manager Armitage as damages.

Another cause of action was the statement appearing in morning paper, and credited to Armitage, that Richard Hageman would replace Tyroler as director of "Rigoletto."

Upon the article appearing in The Times the 5th inst., giving Mr. Armitage's version of Mr. Tyroler's severance with the association, is based another cause of action. Tyroler said that the trouble began when Mr. Tyroler gave the role of priestess in "Aida" to Miss Marion Mack.

The fifth cause of action is based upon an article quoting Mr. Armitage as saying that Mr. Tyroler had been tried out at a piano rehearsal of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and was declared inadequate. The fifth cause of action carries damages of $11,000 each.

The last cause, based upon information and belief, and for which damages of $30,000 are asked, recites that the defendant said to Miss Mack and others that Rosa Raisa would never sing "Cavalleria Rusticana" if Tyroler conducted.

When he learned of Tyroler's suit, Armitage reserved comment. "As long as the matter is in the courts now," he said, "I'd better wait until my turn comes there."

NEWS OF THE CAFES

The Astor Inn at Pico and Western was host to a party given by Mrs. M. O. Powell to Francisco Cornejo, Mexican artist, who has just finished a picture for the Douglas Fairbanks home and one for the Club de Mar Club. Mrs. Bartlett, a guest, spoke on the Mexican pyramids. The cafe was profusely decorated in Spanish colors. A typical Spanish dinner was served, with dancing after dinner by the assembled guests.

Final preparations are being rushed for the opening on the 15th inst. of the new Hollywood cafe, Hollywood, which is to be a feature of the new Hotel Plaza on Vine street, near Hollywood.

Mrs. Michael Klementz, who has been largely responsible for the success of Klementz's Marine Yacht in the downtown business district, is personally superintending plans for the opening week of the new Hollywood cafe, which will feature blue plate dinner of chicken, steak and fish. The new restaurant will be a combination affair operating under the motto "Everything from a sandwich to a banquet." A 1926 model sofa fountain is being installed for those who have their lunch, and there will be a lunch counter with speedy service for those who desire a bite in a hurry. The interior is being beautifully decorated, and Mrs. Klementz plans to make it one of the unique eating places of Hollywood.

Preparations for the biggest Halloween festival the beach has ever known are in progress. The time and attention of Ward McFadden, proprietor of the Ship Club. The club is to be entirely redecorated for the occasion, and a special musical program, suggestive of weird ghost dances is being devised by Walter Lyon and his orchestra. Souvenirs, which McFadden ordered from Paris, have already arrived for the festivities, and the whole evening will take on the atmosphere of a fall Mardi Gras. The city of Venice is planning a masquerade festival for the night, so that the guests at the Ship that evening in costume will lend a colorful air to the whole affair. McFadden has inaugurated a dual policy for the fall and winter months featuring both popular priced table d'hôte dinners and a la carte service.

Kathleen Key, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film star who recently returned from Rome, where she enacted one of the principal roles in the production of "Ben Hur," will be the guest of honor and decide the dancing contest of Eddie Brandstatter's Hollywood Montmartre tonight. The feminine winner will be awarded a beautiful evening gown donated by the Vogue Salon, which her partner will receive an imported English overcoat from Billie Woolf. Tonight is the final contest in which the couple will meet who have qualified in the preliminaries and the semifinals during the past week. Included are the film stars Johanna Ralston and Helen Lee Worthing, who will enter the contest tonight.

O. L. Moore, saxophone artist, will act as master of ceremonies and present an impromptu vaudeville entertainment as an added attraction, while Vince Rose and his

Lucille Cummings Thrust in

Police Launch Search After Mystery Seizure

Kicking and screaming in an attempt to tear away from her captors, Lucille Cummings, 12 years of age, was kidnaped yesterday by two women from the grounds of the Bandit Street School at San Pedro and forced into a closed automobile which carried her away, according to a report by the Harbor District police. At a late hour last night no trace had been found by the police of either the girl or her captors.

Police were seeking the mother of the girl, who is separated from her father, to question her about the affair, it was said. The child is the daughter of N. Cummings, a contractor, of 209 South La Alameda street, San Pedro, and yesterday was her twelfth birthday. Her father had asked to have her excused from school for the afternoon in honor of the occasion and had planned to take her on a pleasure trip, it was said. He was waiting for her to come home from school when police, called by the school authorities, gave him his first knowledge of the kidnapping.

The kidnapping took place during the noon recess. The car, a large one, was driven by a man, the police were told. It stopped at the curb near the school playground and the two women alighted, seized the girl and dragged her away before anyone could interfere. Other pupils told the police it was evident that Lucille did not go willingly and that she had to be forced into the car.

Police Officer Bowshard testified that he had seen Harper pick up a matchbox containing morphine from behind an automobile. Clatt McKinney was held in bond by Justice Blake on a charge of violating the State Police Act. Kinney, who was arrested on suspicion of intoxication, is said to have had marijuana cigarettes in his possession.

"PHANTOM" SPOOKY

LON CHANEY TRIUMPHS IN HOLLYWOOD FILM
By Grace Kingsley
Stuff for a sublimated serial—that is "The Phantom of the Opera," which opened last night at the Rialto! But who is there that doesn't revel in a serial? This picture is going to hold you, despite its far-fetched wildness, or maybe because of it.

There is a girl who has learned to sing by following a voice she hears on the other side of a wall in the Operahouse of Paris. That is the Phantom's voice. Then the Phantom sees it that the girl, played by Mary Philbin, gets her chance to sing in "Faust," wherein she makes a great name for herself.

The Phantom, it turns out, is a half-madman, soured on the world, who lives down five flights of cellars below the Operahouse.
Maybe he was mad, but he certainly did know all about how to run water into chambers when he wanted to drown people, how to make mysterious doors open and shut, how to make chandeliers fall, and what-not. No telling what the boy would have done if he had been in his right mind!

The Mack Bennett cops, of course, if put on the job could have cleaned out that den of his in ten shakes! But, of course, then there would have been no story. As for the Paris police, only the Chief seemed to take any interest in the doings in those cellars, and he never seemed to carry a gun or a bodyguard!

There are other discrepancies, how was it that Lon Chaney had to walk under the water or ride a horse through it, in the most around his cellar, when the men who afterwards came after him found the water only up to their waists? That latter episode made the former seem terribly theatrical.
And if he could stay under water so long, how is it that he drowned so easily when his enemies threw him into the Seine?

All the same, you are going to find "The Phantom of the Opera" thrillingly, chillingly enjoyable, if for no reason than because it is away from the hackneyed trail.
Mary Philbin is too lovely for words, as usual, but moments requiring tenderness in her acting were disappointing. Lon Chaney, a strangely enough, was the only person who really seemed human and who won sympathy, and this despite the most frightful make-up he has ever worn, and the fact that he plays a fiend. Norman Kerry is a handsome puppet. The others are effective enough.

A lively prologue sends the dancers down through the audience and provides an opportunity for two soloists to sing selections from "Faust." The musical score seems to me excellent. "The Phantom" is going to bring real dollars into the box office.

The color photography used in several scenes is tremendously effective.

ALFRED GREEN WILL
ROSS FAIR COLLEEN
Alfred E. Green has been selected to direct Colleen Moore in "Irene," according to announcement today from John Mc-Cormick of First National. It is extremely fitting that Green should be selected to direct the fair Colleen in the production of "Irene," which is being made from John McCormick's play. The

OPERA GOES TO HIGHER LEVEL

Marguerite D'Alvarez as Delilah and Marcel Journet as the High Priest, raised to a fine height both the appeal of the plot and the music.

CHARM PERVADES ALL
The seductive charm of the second act particularly seemed to pervade all beholders. The ovation that greeted the principals—there must have been a dozen curtain calls with cheers for all three that they interpreted.

Exceptional, too, in its climactic splendor was the final scene of the destruction of the temple. It was a picture of the theatrical epic with a very lovely reality, but this was accomplished impres-sively last evening. Thanks to the fact that the season might be said to possess something of the logical physical proportions to pull down the pillars of the theatrical edifice. They fell with a fine, emphatic thunder and rumble that gave quite a dash of theatrical thrill to the spectators. The work for the performance. The investiture for this entire scene, with a very lovely ballet by the Kossloff dancers, went far to enhance the generally beautiful effect.

The development of the attractions of the stage pictures was both cumulative and finely contrasted, and that, perhaps, is as it should be in "Samson and Delilah."
The picture was a work for the eye as well as for the ear. The mood of the setting for the love scene provided a subdued change from the picture of the temple.
The final suggestion was of a somewhat Bacchanalian splendor.

NOT DISAPPOINTING
Mostly "Samson and Delilah" is not disappointing. It is not, of course, a work of big sweeping emotion, for in its original conception it was not designed for the opera stage, but for the oratorio platform. Were the eyes to be closed against the stage impression, the picture, one could say, at times almost feel that he was in the concert hall rather than the theater.

The way that the work is constructed recurrently suggests that there are blank spaces not well filled with action, but the production rises at all points to its musical climax. For that reason there is bound to be a certain strain and effort in the act, although this was pretty well submerged in the performance last evening.

Needless to say, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," the familiar aria, was an outstanding popular number. It both gained and lost from a setting. It ends as a duet instead of a solo, and in this phase was splendid as given by Mr. Alvarez and Mrs. D'Alvarez. Elsewhere it was past-like rather than striking musically.

Even in the second act, which by virtue of this aria belongs rightfully to the D'Alvarezs, I felt that considering his opportunities, Mr. Alvarez had just a shade perhaps the better of the honors, notwithstanding the big applause that was given Mrs. D'Alvarez. (It is difficult, though, to divide these laurels.)
Only his exit from the stage was a little too precipitous. It conveyed the idea that he had succumbed rather too readily to the wiles of the temptress.

HAS FINE VOICE
His acting throughout had sweep, and on this account he classifies very acceptably as that rare type —the heroic tenor. With a degree more of balance at certain moments, I believe, too, that he would be a very magnificent one.
He has a fine vigor of voice that naturally commands attention, and a similar quality in his work that is notable.
